HENS RAISED IN A ROOF GARDEN

By Associated Press.
LONDON, Sept. 17.—One hundred feet above one of London's busiest streets and within 200 yards of Big Ben, on the roof of the Institute of Civil Engineers, there is one of the best kept and most prosperous poultry farms in the city.
It comprises thirty-six hens, housed in three spacious coops, but during the greater part of the day the hens are allowed to roam about the roof at will. Although the cooping is not more than eighteen inches high the hens never attempt to reach the ground, contenting themselves with mounting the top and there announcing their satisfaction after an egg has been added to the record they have been making.

WHEN TO LOOK FOR A FROST

While frost appeared in the western part of the state the first week of September this year, the average date for killing cold does not come until much later in the year, usually about the last of the month or early in October and, in 1915 it was not until November that the first frost appeared. The record for the past thirteen years of Tonopah reads as follows:

1906—October 19.
1907—October 2.
1908—October 2.
1909—October 29.
1910—October 12.
1911—October 10.
1912—October 4.
1913—September 30.
1914—October 22.
1915—November 9.
1916—October 4.
1917—October 18.
1918—October 19.
1919—October 19.

Old timers say this winter is going to beat all records, as the field mice are all establishing winter quarters indoors much earlier than usual. This is said to be an infallible index.

The woman who hasn't any always thinks a display of diamonds on another woman shows mighty poor taste.

HAULING ORE TO REFINERY

Ed. Harmer says he has been reading lately about highgrade opened by modern methods in some of the old mines, but he thinks the present day companies are a long way from having the ore that caused all eyes to bulge, back in the eighties when he was handling a jerk line over the backs of a fourteen-mile freighting outfit that was hooked up to a lead wagon with two trailers.

"One day after arriving at Eureka with a full load the superintendent came out to look at the rock. He sifted some of the small stuff through his hands and turning to me said: 'Say, Ed, you don't have to take that to the smelter; just drive around to the refinery and unload.'"

This is the kind of highgrade they used to get out of the Gila mine in the Nevada district in the eastern end of Nye county.

If you only do as much as you are expected to do, some day you'll do less than you expected to be doing.

FLORENCE DIVIDE
"A Good Buy"

This company has just opened another rich body containing probably a greater amount than the one they recently worked and shipped the highgrade from. It is estimated that they now have over $100,000 worth of rich ore in the present ore shoot with the full dimensions yet unexplored. Florence Divide appears to be an attractive purchase around present price. We have several large specimens on hand for display.
